Improve Your Home and Lifestyle - Summer 2010

Get a bigger property without moving

A new Conservatory will provide a stylish asset to any home with additional living space that you can enjoy throughout the year.

"We are delighted with our new conservatory, we should have ordered it years ago." Michael Margrett.

For some, a conservatory is a haven of peace and relaxation. For others, it provides valuable, additional space. However you use your conservatory, it will add value to your home and provide an extra dimension in comfort and space. And you can enjoy your conservatory year round whatever the weather with efficient heating and cooling.

Save money, buy before the VAT increase

We will make choosing a conservatory a pleasurable experience. We will:

- Help you choose the perfect style
- Advise on the best glazing and ventilation options for warmth in Winter and coolness in Summer
- Inform you about a host of accessories and design features to personalise your conservatory. Remember, your conservatory will be made to measure.

If you are excited at the prospect of having a new conservatory, drop in and see us or call for more information.

Reduce your energy consumption and protect the environment...

Save money with energy efficient windows

If you are not already aware, you should know that 27% of all carbon dioxide emissions come from energy use in the home. When you install the latest 'A' rated windows from Window Wise, you will be improving the insulation of your home and protecting the environment. But better than that, by installing energy efficient windows, you will save money.

The way it works is simple. Windows glazed with EcoClear allow optimal amounts of the sun's energy to pass through the glass allowing your home to benefit from free solar heat gain. The advanced glass coating reflects heat inside your house back into the room rather than letting it escape.

All of this is extremely good news particularly as we all remain concerned about energy costs.

Action needed to ensure Britain's energy supplies

A recent release from Ofgem - the energy regulator, has expressed concern over future energy security. The recent global financial crisis, increasing gas import dependency and the closure of ageing power stations has cast some doubt over whether the current energy arrangements will deliver sustainable energy supplies. 'If we act now, we can help keep costs as low as possible' says Ogem's Chief Executive, Alistair Buchanan.

Tell us what you think about conserving energy (see back page).

"We are very pleased with our excellent new windows. You completed the work so carefully." E.J.Hazel

I want to feel more secure in my home...

Improve your home and you can feel more secure

Our wide range of beautiful doors allows you to choose a style and product that meets your own unique requirements, providing you with style, elegance and security ...there really is something to suit every home. With a new door in your home, you will straight away feel more secure. You will be amazed at the variety of styles and colours that we can supply.

Why are our doors so secure?

All our doors are glazed internally and feature the very latest multi-point locking systems for security. This conforms to insurance company specification approval. A multi-point lock is a locking system, operated by one handle, incorporating a mechanism that secures a door (or window) at one or more points.
